CANADA TAKES HAND

Pact.

Geneva, Sept. 7.—Tact recognition of the Moscow soviet as the governing power in Russia was accorded by the league of nations this afternoon. The secretary general of the league gave notice that three treaties and one international agreement had been registered at league headquarters.

Geneva, Sept. 7.—Senor Edwards, head of the Chilean delegation to the league of nations meeting today served formal notice upon the league assembly that Chile will withdraw from the league if the demands of Bolivia are accepted.

The Chilean envoy said that his country held that the league of nations assembly was not competent to revive the treaty of 1904 between Chile and Bolivia.

Senor Aramayo, head of the Bolivian delegation, in replying to Senor Edwards said there could be no hope of lasting peace in South America if the present Bolivian-Chilean treaty stands. He moved that the Bolivian demands be sent to a committee for examination before any vote was taken.

The Bolivian envoy was successful in obtaining delay. The assembly decided to postpone further discussion of the South American dispute until it could be studied at greater length with the understanding that definite decision be reached before the assembly adjourns.

Canada is determined to press her fight for the elimination of article 10 of the league of nations covenant. This was revealed by minister of justice Doherty of the Canadian cabinet and head of the Canadian delegation.

"Canada is going to stand by her guns," said Mr. Doherty. "She will reiterate her demand that the league kill article ten. If the assembly votes to retain it the situation will become serious for us, frankly I don't know what the Canadian parliament will do."

The disarmament committee of the league held a meeting this afternoon. Chairman Branting of Sweden urged the importance of the league taking serious action without waiting for the results of the Washington conference. Sub-committees were appointed to handle the recent report of the league of nations council upon disarmament.

Note: The so-called Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Bolivia concerns territory. Bolivia has no outlet to the Pacific and claimed territory at the northern end of Chile between the cities of Tacna and Arica. Under the treaty in question Chile retaining the disputed ground but allowed Bolivia free transport to the sea.

The dispute was referred to the league of nations by Bolivia and the Bolivian delegation demanded a revision of the treaty along with recognition of the Bolivian demands. "If the assembly accepts the demand of Bolivia then Chile can no longer participate in the activities of this assembly," said Senor Edwards. "If the league considers revision of the Bolivian treaty, Germany may later demand revision of the treaty of Versailles. I ask that the assembly take a vote upon the matter."

Edwards denied that Bolivia is completely cut off from the sea. "Chile allows Bolivia to make shipments to and from the sea," said the Chilean delegate. "Chile even allows munitions to pass which may be used against our own country later. I appeal to Bolivia to withdraw her demand."

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 7.—Approximately one thousand troops will be left in the recently disturbed West Virginia coal fields when the contingents ordered withdrawn yesterday leave. Those recalled are expected to be on the way to their home station by tomorrow.

The chemical warfare section, it is said, will leave today for Edgewood arsenal, while the 26th infantry will depart as soon as special trains arrive. The 88th aero squadron with the exception of two messenger planes ordered back to Langley Field, Va., probably will leave this afternoon or tomorrow. Reports this morning indicated that all continues quiet in the recently affected zone.

Congressmen Return Under Fire Of Much Criticism

Sad Tales of Home Receptions Told by Many Who Return

Washington, Sept. 7.—Republican congressmen from the north and mid-west who went back home for the congressional recess to spend a vacation and to rest, are returning to Washington.

The returning ones were relating sad tales today of their home reception. They were met by an army of unemployed men and discouraged farmers.

OVER ONE MILLION OHIO PUPILS NOW BACK IN SCHOOL

New School Act Boosts
Attendance at Many Places.

Columbus, Sept. 7.—Over 1,000,000 Ohio pupils enrolled in the high normal and elementary schools throughout the state, yesterday according to reports reaching the offices of state directors of education Riegel. Registrations in the Columbus schools yesterday totaled 31,417.

Practically all schools opened except a few rural schools which will start next Monday.

Lack of employment and the Bing school act, compelling children to attend school until they are 18 years old, unless employed, are accorded chief credit for the boosts in high school enrollment this fall.

County normal school directors are asking for assistants. An increase of 100 percent in attendance is reported from some of the normal schools.

Although local school boards may require it, state authorities, for the first time this fall will not require the study of algebra in high schools. Five units of study are required, two of English, two of social studies including American history and civics, and one of science. The remaining 11 units in a high school course are elective.

VOTERS WILL PASS ON MANAGER FORM

Cleveland, Sept. 7.—Cleveland voters will pass upon the city manager plan at the November election city council last night having adopted the necessary resolution for the submission of the charter changes to the people. Only one member of the council, Adam J. Damm, voted against the resolution.

Peter Witt, one time lieutenant of Tom L. Johnson, is chairman of the committee of 100, having charge of the campaign for the change.

ASSUMES DUTIES

Wilmington, Sept. 7.—Miss Ruth Fledderjohann of Columbus has taken up her work in this city as executive secretary of the welfare work in Clinton county, being employed by a joint committee of the local chapter of the Red Cross and the Welfare association.

She takes the place of Miss Marguerite Mitchell, who recently resigned to accept a position as librarian at Wilmington College. Her office is on the third floor of the courthouse.

MANDATE ISSUE NOT REOPENED BY NOTE SENT

Harding Letter Will Not
Bring Question to Front
Is Belief.

BRITISH ATTITUDE

England Will Not Take
Missive Seriously It Is Stated.

London, Sept. 7.—President Harding's new mandate note to the league of nations will not result in reopening the question of the mandates by the allied powers, according to opinion advanced in official circles here today. It is understood France and Italy are determined to proceed with the mandate question to the treaty of Versailles and will refuse to renew the negotiations on the subject.

Great Britain's position was summed up as follows by a well informed political personage:

"Great Britain greets the new American mandate note with the most pleasant smile but intends to forget the receipt of it."

The note has been in the chancelleries of the allied powers several days.

It is stated on the best authority in Whitehall that A. J. Balfour, who is now in Geneva attending the league of nations meeting, regards the American note as adding nothing new to the mandate controversy. Mr. Balfour is backed in his opinion by the foreign office. British officials fear that discussion might lead to misunderstandings.

The United States raised the mandate question as a result of American opposition to Yap Island mandate. The mandates had already been distributed before the original American protest was made.

The distribution of the mandates was made by the supreme council, subject to the approval of the league of nations assembly at a time when America was without an official observer on the supreme council.

LATE REPORTS OF MORGAN VISIT TO GERMANY UNTRUE

Rumor Influenced Stock
Exchange In Berlin It
Is Said

Berlin, Sept. 7.—Sensational reports of a visit of J. P. Morgan to Berlin, which influenced the stock exchange and caused the price of German general electric to skyrocket 100 points were proved today to be a hoax.

An investigation traced much of the responsibility to an imaginative reporter on the Berliner Tageblatt, an American who registered as "Parker Miller" of New York at the Bristol hotel and produced an authenticated passport, was said by the Berliner Tageblatt to be the famous American banker who was traveling incognito. The Berliner Tageblatt reporter, who was responsible for the story, said that he had interviewed Felix Leuch, an official of the German general electric company who admitted that "Parker Miller" was Mr. Morgan and that the two had conferred upon business matters.

Later in an interview with the International News Service, Herr Deutsch denied that he had seen "Mr. Morgan."

The borse committee has started an investigation to determine whether the reports of Mr. Morgan's presence here were started with the idea of influencing prices.

The Mittag Zeitung followed up the Berliner Tageblatt's story saying that Mr. Morgan was in Germany.

PARK DESTROYED

Atlantic City, N. J. Sept. 7.—Rendevous park, a new amusement resort built last winter was almost totally destroyed by fire today. The damage is estimated at 150,000.

Streams of water were played on the Boardwalk to keep the fire from spreading along the beach. The park was said to be one of the largest recreation parks of its kind in the country.

WAR OR PEACE HANGS IN BALANCE FOR IRELAND

Advisability of Inviting Sinn Fein to an Immediate Conference Discussed at British Cabinet Meeting Which Holds Key.

Inverness, Scotland, Sept. 7.—The British cabinet today told the Sinn Fein that Ireland cannot be allowed to separate from the British Empire but agreed to a peace conference having dominion status.

Inverness, Scotland, Sept. 7.—"We have made great progress," said Premier Lloyd George at the conclusion of the first session of the cabinet meeting today to discuss the Irish peace situation and draft a reply to Eamonn Devalera's latest note.

"We hope to make a definite reply," said the premier. "The sitting will be resumed during the afternoon."

The initial session lasted from 11 o'clock until 15 minutes after one, when a recess was taken for lunch.

The International News Service learns that the guiding statement of the cabinet members was as follows:

1—Arrange an immediate English-Sinn Fein conference at which questions affecting the peace solution shall be put and discussed plainly and bluntly.

2—The English government's offer to remain the final word in principle.

3—Demand of the Sinn Fein whether it is standing pat upon its contention for a democracy.

If the Sinn Fein remains adamant the negotiations probably will end and the British will proceed with measures to protect Ulster province from attack by the Sinn Feiners of south Ireland.

Inverness, Scotland, Sept. 7.—The advisability of inviting the Sinn Fein to an immediate peace conference to determine if a basis can be reached for further negotiations was discussed, it is understood when the British cabinet met here today with Premier Lloyd George. The session began at 11 o'clock.

Inverness, Scotland, Sept. 7.—War or peace for Ireland hung in the balance today on the eve of the first British cabinet meeting ever held in Scotland. All of the members of the cabinet have arrived here from London, with the exception of Marquis Curzon, who is ill, and as they assembled it was predicted freely that an ultimatum might be sent to the Sinn Fein giving a time limit for acceptance of the principle of the English peace offer.

Eamonn Devalera is still breathing defiance against England as was shown by his Dublin statement of Tuesday when he attacked the British

WAR CLOUDS OVER EUROPE BLACKER

London, Sept. 7.—War clouds over central Europe grew blacker today. An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Vienna said that the Austrian government has dispatched an ultimatum to Budapest threatening to break off all diplomatic relations with Hungary unless the armed Hungarian forces retire from Austrian soil and from the territory in west Hungary that was promised to Austria under the Trianon treaty.

Cotton Industry Back On Feet as 8 Cent Rise Shown

Feeling of Optimism Prevails As Conditions Improve.

Boston, Sept. 7.—The cotton textile industry of America, which centers in New England, has according to figures tabulated here today, the distinction of being the first in America to come safely through the period of readjustment. An eight cent rise in the price of cotton, together with government figures showing a 69.3 per cent crop, has been followed by an increased demand for the staple and the actual resumption of manufacturing in full force in practically every mill center in New England.

In addition the rise in cotton quotations on all the exchanges has increased the value of cotton now held and expected as the season's crop in the south more than $50,000,000.

Yesterday the price of cotton at Liverpool and other world markets went up nearly thirteen dollars a bale. At the end of July, 200,000 bales were known to have been in storage in the south. The net increase in the value of this cotton in one day has there fore been nearly $70,000,000.

Coming simultaneously with this increase in price New England milling centers have made tremendous increases in their actual consumption of cotton for manufacturing.

In Fall river, the mills which have been either shut down or on part time were to resume full operations today. In New Bedford, where higher quality textiles are made, the figures today showed the mills were operating at 90 per cent of normal. In Lowell, where there was a serious condition of unemployment the mills have resumed operations and today were to go on a full time schedule. In Manchester N. H. the biggest mills today started over time operations, while no mill is working less than sixty percent of capacity.

Important orders have been received in Lawrence and those mills not yet busy are expected to open soon. The woolen textile industry likewise reports increased business and optimism. According to William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, all the mills of his concern are already assured of capacity business throughout the winter. This will help to quiet much of the unemployment fear which has been felt in New England. The American Woolen company alone employs approximately 20,000.

In Lawrence, where almost forty mill operatives have been unemployed, the mills were to resume 90 percent operations with a corresponding force of operatives.

The New York cotton market rose $10 a bale yesterday, the maximum permitted under the rules of the exchange. Further increases are expected today.

New York, Sept. 7.—Spot cotton rose from $6.25 to more than $8.00 a bale on the New York cotton exchange today. While there was considerable unloading by those who wished to take profits upon their speculative holdings, there were other eager buyers and their orders kept the market buoyant.

New Orleans, Sept. 7.—For the first time in the history of the local cotton market fall months opened today $10 a bale above the close of yesterday. This is the limit of a rise in prices allowed in a day by the New Orleans cotton exchange and brokers and others fought like wild men to buy as soon as the market opened.

GOVERNMENT TO HAVE CONTROL OF COAL FIELDS

Step Seriously Considered
By Members of Senate Committee.

WOULD HALT TROUBLE

Basic Cause is Private Ownership of Public
Necessities.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Government control of the West Virginia coal fields to end permanently the violence which has been recurring in them for years, is being seriously considered today by members of the senate committee appointed to investigate the repeated conflicts between miners and operators.

In the continued absence of Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, the chairman, the other committee members were reluctant to discuss what recommendations would probably be made for preventing another outbreak in the mine war. Several of them expressed the opinion however, that the salutary effect that federal intervention has had upon the situation will be regarded as an object lesson by the committee when it makes a report to the senate.

No charge has been made yet in the plan to have the committee meet at Huntington, W. Va., on Sept. 18, to proceed into the troublesome territory, it was stated. No word has been received from Senator Kenyon that he is contemplating any change in the plan which was made before the recent fighting began.

As a member of another senate committee which in 1913 investigated conditions in the West Virginia, similar to those existing there today, Senator Kenyon suggested that the government take over the coal mines then. The report he made at that time to the senate reads as though he had written it as a result of the present investigation.

"It is well to inquire as to the reasons for such deplorable conditions," he stated. "Many things appear on the surface which might be deemed causes, but they are only surface indications of a deeper trouble."

"The basic cause is private ownership of great public necessities, such as coal; this coupled with human greed, incident to such ownership has brought about the deplorable and un-American conditions in the West Virginia coal field."

Moscow, Sept. 7.—Bessie Beatty of San Francisco, noted feminist and an authority on Russia, has just returned from a three thousand mile round trip to the Samara famine area and today gave the International News Service her impressions. Miss Beatty, who was formerly a newspaper writer in San Francisco and Los Angeles, made the long journey in a special train as a fellow passenger of M. Kalinin, president of the soviet government committee investigating the famine and plague.

"Samara is the heart of the famine area," she said. "Conditions are better the farther south one goes. In Astrakhan and Tzaritzin vegetables, fruit and fish somewhat relieve the food shortage."

"There is no panic anywhere, though great crowds are thronging Samara, eager to get out of that area. A fatalistic depression pervades all the stricken area."

"M. Kalinin said repeatedly, 'many of these unfortunates are sure to die.'"

"Peasants who heard him answered, 'yes we shall die.'"

DEMAND CHANGE IN LAWS OF TAXATION

Washington, Sept. 7.—There is a growing sentiment in the senate finance committee to make repeal of the excess profits tax retroactive to last Jan. 1, instead of effective next Jan. 1, as provided for in the house revenue bill, Chairman Penrose said in announcing that the committee expected to complete today preliminary consideration of the house measure.

It is understood that Secretary Mellon will suggest retroactive repeal of this tax when he appears before the committee tomorrow to submit a written statement as to future government money needs. Such repeal was provided for in the tax bill as originally drawn by the house ways and means committee, but Republican members of the house voted in conference to postpone the date to Jan. 1, 1922.

Members of the senate committee are understood to take the position that the Republican party made a definite promise to repeal this tax immediately and that this is a settled pledge in the public mind.

Treasury experts have estimated that retroactive repeal of this levy would cut $450,000,000 from the revenue total in the next calendar year, making the income on the basis of the house bill $2,540,000,000 for 1922.

ONE HUNDRED STUDENTS REGISTER AT ANTIOCH COLLEGE FOR THE OPENING SEMESTER OF SCHOOL UNDER NEW PLAN

One hundred students from 27 D. Fess, former president of Antioch, states, registered at Antioch College, Tuesday, when the old school with a new purpose and new life, opened its first semester and first day of school under the new Morgan regime.

Another registration day will be held October 11, at which time it is expected that over 100 more students will register, making the anticipated total enrollment for the first semester over 200 students. These students are picked through an intricate process of determining the character and ability of the prospects.

Although the school expects to enroll many more than 200 students as it progresses during the next few years, the increase is large for this year over the student enrollment of last year, when less than 100 students attended the college. As the plan progresses also, the college will be equipped with factory buildings and apparatus in order to carry out the scheme of the new president, Arthur E. Morgan, of combining the practical with theoretical knowledge, permitting students to work on the co-operative plan while in school.

According to the plan in effect in Antioch, theory will be studied for five weeks, to be followed by five weeks of practical experience and work in the industries. The courses at the college as outlined now cover a six year period and offer such subjects as: College aims, personal finances, physical chemistry, mathematics, English, physical education, biology, industrial relations, social science, earth science, cost keeping and accounting, traffic distribution, philosophy and psychology, finance, industrial research, administrative organization, purchasing, salesmanship and production engineering. Professions which may be studied at the college and which will be enlarged upon later are: Machine shop operation, printing, publishing and journalism, contracting, civil engineering, industrial organization management, household economics and institutional management.

President Morgan has surrounded himself with a faculty which includes many of the most brilliant and versatile men in the various branches which are offered in the curriculum, who have been gathered from all parts of the country because of their particular fitness in their chosen profession. The plan adopted by Antioch is being watched with interest by educators all over the world, as the success of the plan it is believed, will mean a great step forward in educational lines.

President Morgan received the newly enrolled students Tuesday evening at an informal get-together meeting in the college gymnasium. Speakers at the meeting were Mr. Morgan, William Dawson, former acting president and member of the faculty now; General J. Warren Keifer, Springfield; Earl Prugh, director of athletics at the college; and Dr. Hendrik W. Van Loon, professor of social science and three students, V. H. Wallace, Miss Wilhelmine Ralston and Carl Reinhold. Besides the talks, there were college songs and yells and music.

HUNTERS PREPARE TO ENJOY SEASON

With the hunting season approaching there is every indication of interest on the part of nimrods who are oiling and preparing their weapons for the campaign to follow.

Squirrels will first face the battery of the hunters the season opening September 15. Reports from several sections are to the effect that the animal is more than usually plentiful this year.

Strict compliance with the hunting laws is insisted upon by the wardens and members of the Fish and Game Protective Association and any violations will be strictly dealt with.

FUTURE OF ATTEMPT AT SEA TRADE IS NOW IN MAKING

Washington.—Whether the United States flag flies over the largest merchant marine in the world, as it once flew over the clipper fleets of American commerce, depends on the development of the present Shipping Board's program, within the next few months.

Chairman Albert D. Lasker, of the new board, has stated that it will take a full year to determine definitely the result of the present program.

The preliminary steps in the program have already been undertaken. They include:

First, A general clean-up of incomplete contracts.

Second, A thorough survey of the entire Shipping Board, to determine just where the organization stands in a business way.

Third, To put the board on the same basis as a successful business.

The general goal toward which these steps are directed is a full-fledged American merchant marine, second to none.

Chairman Lasker has stated that his administration has inherited chaos. They have inherited an organization, in which, owing to war conditions, accounts with the business clients are badly scrambled, a large amount of surplus material is on hand, some of it unsalable, under present conditions, and finally, with the second largest tonnage in the world on their hands, they are operating at a loss to the government.

The first thing the present organization has undertaken has been to clean up, that is, settle long standing accounts as rapidly as they can be put in shape, clear away accumulated red tape, adjust the organization to present conditions, and in general start with as clean

WAS BLESSING TO REYNOLD'S HOME

Akron Man Says By Restoring His Wife's Health Tanlac Has Meant Lots To Them

"My wife and I are both glad to recommend Tanlac, for it certainly has been a blessing in our home," said Harry E. Reynolds, 786 Bowery St., Akron, while at the Day drug store.

"For three years my wife suffered from nervousness and a persistent cough which kept her in miserable health. She couldn't do her housework and the least little noise would upset her entirely. She had no appetite, just could not sit down to the table and enjoy a meal, and nights she was so nervous and coughed so much neither of us could get much sleep."

"Well, it seemed that all the neighbors were praising Tanlac, so my wife started taking it. After finishing her sixth bottle she was sleeping just like a child at night and was relieved of that cough. Her appetite came back, too, and she now enjoys her meals just as well as I do. Tanlac certainly has meant a great deal to us, and we're both mighty thankful."

Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill, and by leading druggists everywhere.

a slate as possible. This is still going on, and Chairman Lasker expects months to elapse before most of the work is done.

In line with this clean-up the organization is being thoroughly overhauled and surveyed. This is to determine what assets and liabilities the present board has, a thing which the chairman states has never been done. He states that an enormous amount of work is involved in this alone.

The third step, putting the firm in working order, involves all these things and is the immediate goal.

The fundamental thing being undertaken now is to stop the loss to the Government through the boards operations. This is stated to be the keynote to the entire undertaking.

This loss has been laid by board officials to the present system of operating Shipping Board Vessels known as Managing Operators' Agreement No. 4. Under this agreement operators are practically guaranteed 5 per cent of the ships' earnings, although the losses in operating might in some cases exceed by thousands of dollars the total income. This is held to be the primary cause of all the present trouble.

Accordingly the first definite plank in the new board's platform has been to agree unanimously that this system must be abolished. This feature of the permanent policy is the only one fully decided as yet and until it is done it is stated that lesser matters must wait.

The board, of course, has determined on other steps besides abolishing the present operating agreements, but they are all involved under the general head of stopping loss to the Government.

Negotiations are under way whereby all surplus material will be disposed of and some of this work is now under way, including the sale of wooden ships.

When all this is done the present board hopes they will have the following:

A business organization with all accounts settled or accounted for, liabilities paid, and in modern form generally; all old stock off its shelves, and everything in it producing.

And, first of all, a full-grown American merchant fleet, manned by Americans sailing every trade route and bringing in its share of the revenue derived from carrying the goods of all countries in successful competitions with its rivals at sea.

BANKER DENIES JAPAN SEEKS U. S. WAR AS BELIEVED

Birmingham, Ala.—"I am surprised that there is any serious talk of a conflict between America and Japan. Nippon is hardly in a condition to finance a war, and there are certainly no indications in that country of preparations or movement for any trouble," said Morris Adler, local financier, who has just returned from a ten weeks tour of the Sunrise Kingdom.

"Japan is giving much thought to developing her manufacturing industries and general business. There is plenty of money in circulation and I was told that the banks carried a considerable balance. The merchants, however, complained some of depreciation

OVER FIVE-EIGHTHS OF CEDARVILLE FUND IS NOW PLEDGED

More than five-eighths, of Cedarville College's campaign to collect $200,000 for the purposes of erecting new buildings and giving the school an endowment, has been raised so far.

Not satisfied with stopping the campaign while still below the quota, the drive will be continued on until the quota of $200,000 has been reached, according to Dr. W. R. McClesney, president of the college.

The campaign had been previously extended until Tuesday evening, with an official close scheduled, but when only $133,000 had been received up until that time, it was decided at campaign headquarters to continue the drive, until the full amount sought, is safe in the pledge boxes.

Inability to see many prospects in the county last week, due to the Ohio State Fair and the Fall Festival that was held in this city, the campaign was extended over from Saturday until Tuesday. As the workers did not solicit on Sunday, the extra two days still did not give them time to complete their work, or even to clear through their list of prospects, and for this reason the time of the drive has again been extended.

The opening of Cedarville College with a large enrollment than ever before in its history, and with a spirit that marks the beginning of a new era in the college, bespeaks the value of the campaign in advertising so far, and promises that it will keep alive the money campaign until its purpose is accomplished. Substantial donations expected this week, will probably force the drive over the top before another week is out.

CEDARVILLE OPENS WEDNESDAY WITH 100 REGISTERED

The largest enrollment in the history of Cedarville College is anticipated as the registration of students at the school began Wednesday morning the opening day of the new term.

About 100 students were registered, Wednesday morning in the academic courses and an enrollment of at least 50 students in the music department was expected Wednesday afternoon when that department will be enrolled. The seminary registration will start next week, and at least 15 students in this department are anticipated, insuring a total enrollment of about 140 students. About 45 or 50 of the students enrolled are new students.

Chapel exercises and devotionals opened the school officially, Wednesday morning. Dr. W. R. Chesney, president of the College presided at the devotionals and Dr. J. D. White, United Presbyterian pastor at Cedarville led the prayer. The Rev. R. L. Hutchison pastor of the Fourth United Presbyterian Church, of Philadelphia, and himself a graduate of Cedarville College, gave the Scripture reading.

The principal address of the exercises was given by the Rev. D. H. Bauslin, D. D., Dean of the Hamma Divinity School at Springfield, who chose for his subject "The Fundamentals of True Manhood and Womanhood." His address was considered an eloquent and timely message to the young people starting in school.

The largest crowd that ever attended similar exercises was present for the chapel program, Wednesday morning, the room being crowded so that many had to stand in the corridor and in adjoining rooms.

Getting to work on the first day seems to be the motto of Coach Blackburn, director of athletics at Cedarville, for he issued a call for football material, before the ink from their names had dried on the registration books. The football players at the school were told to report for an initial meeting at four o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, and it is expected that 30 or 40 football men would line up for the meeting. Among the students this year are a number of former Central high football men from this city who should bolster up the Cedarville eleven considerably.

FUEL COMPANY WILL BE FORCED TO TURN ON GAS WEDNESDAY

Columbus, Sept. 7.—The state utilities commission has given the Medina Gas Company until today to comply with the commission's order that gas be turned on at Lima, Wapakoneta, St. Marys and Celina.

The commission's decree was issued after a hearing attended by counsel for the Medina company, which is the producing company, and the Lima Gas Company, the distributing concern. The hearing was marked by a display of friction between representatives of the gas companies.

The Medina company said the Lima company only wants to pay it but 35 cents while charging consumers $1.65. The Lima company, which has asked the Lima council for a $1.10 rate, according to its attorneys, is willing to pay all it owes the Medina company but not until after a reasonable settlement is made. The Lima council objects to paying over 55 cents for gas.

ANTIOCH TO ISSUE FOOTBALL CALL

Earl Prugh, director of athletics at Antioch College, will start athletics at the school soon, it is said. A call for football practice will probably not come until after the second registration day, October 11 but football will be participated in this fall.

While little effort will be made to develop a championship eleven this fall, the work that will be done in the grid sport this year, is expected to build the foundations for first class athletics in the future.

The new coach, formerly coach at Troy High School, is rated high as an Ohio Conference official.

HARDING ANSWERS CRITICS BY LETTER SHOWING BIG WORK

Washington, Sept. 7.—President Harding, in a letter reviewing the achievements to date of the Republican administration, particularly with reference to Congress, declare that "surveying the national situation as a whole, it is plain that we are working our way out of a welter of waste and prodigal spending at a most impressive rate."

The letter, was written by the president August 29 to Senator McCormick, of Illinois, and it is understood, will be used in the campaign in New Mexico, where Senator Bursum, appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Secretary of the Interior Fall, is a candidate for election. The letter, it also is understood, is considered by Republican leaders as a reply to attacks on the legislative record of the Republican Congress by Chairman White of the Democratic national committee, and other leading Democrats.

"We have made much progress toward retrenchment and greatly increased efficiency," the president asserts. "I cannot but account it a monumental accomplishment that has marked the work of the extraordinary session down to the time of its recess."

Looking to the future, Mr. Harding in his letter expresses the confident hope "that Congress, after the recess and before the end of the extraordinary session, will adopt both the tariff and taxation measures, and that along with these it will pass the bill to permit funding of the debt owed us by foreign governments."

"This, I hope," the president adds, "will shortly be followed by arrangements under which the debtor countries will begin paying interest on their obligations. Likewise, I am confident that the bill facilitating the funding of the debt of the railways to the United States will become law during the extraordinary session, thus insuring a large and immediate demand for employment of men now idle."

The Republican Congress preceding the advent of the present administration is credited by Mr. Harding with having "patiently and assiduously labored to reduce expenditures" with results "which we can summarize in the statement that the appropriations for the current fiscal year will aggregate $425,000,000, and that this is $750,000,000 less than the expenditures for the previous fiscal year."

The president, after reciting as "extraneous incident to the war" the expenditure of $3,500,000,000 by the shipping board; between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 for aircraft, artillery and ammunition, and between $1,250,000,000 and $1,500,000,000 for the railroad administration, adds:

"It is gratifying to be able to say, therefore, that probably no other government in the world has during a similar period, so drastically reduced expenditures as has the government of the United States during the past two years on the insistence of the Republican Congress. Moreover, I am happy to assure you that the administrative departments are now in full sympathy with the program of rigorous and unrelenting economy, through which, I believe, we will be able during the next year to cover back into the treasury so large a sum that the aggregate of taxation may be reduced to $3,500,000,000 a year."

"Half the present total expenditures of the government arises from wars of the past. Similar burdens are imposed upon the taxpayers of other countries, and a well-nigh universal protest against a possible repetition of gigantic conflict gives rise to the common hope that the conference in November may lighten the burdens of both armament and taxation, not only for this but for other lands."

"Almost without exception the governments of other countries are faced with great deficits. We must not overestimate our good fortune and the prudence of our Congress, which permits us to balance revenue and expenditure at a time when deficits are the rule throughout the world. We shall be greatly aided in a policy of progressively reducing expenditures by the budget law. Republican in origin, enactment and execution. I do not hesitate to say that in ordinary times it alone would have been considered a highly creditable chief product of a year's legislative program."

"Yet, in a time of such legislative activity as the present, it is only one among many measures of the first importance to be enacted. The series of measures looking to the amelioration of conditions in the great agricultural industries would in other times have constituted a striking legislative product of a year's session."

Styles BY LENORE

It may be said most truthfully that this season fashion permits almost any conceivable variation in the sleeve of the daytime dress. So old that it is again quite new, the bishop sleeve makes its debut in Fall styles. In the semi-tailored street dress, shown in the sketch, the sleeve is the most ornamental member. The embroidery is a mingling of silk floss and chenille in black, scarlet and threads of gold, extremely effective against the background of dark blue serge. Heavy ecru lace fills in the deep oval neck, a becoming line to almost every type, and the skirt seems to be a favorite idea with this designer, for he has also featured it in a Russian blouse suit which I recently illustrated.

WHY ENGLAND AND FRANCE NOW DIFFER ABOUT GERMANY.

Americans should recognize that there is something more fundamental than Upper Silesia or Western Asia Minor dividing the British and the French. We are in the presence of two totally divergent conceptions of the wiser policy in dealing with Germany. And this divergence of opinion rests upon the utterly different interests of the two nations. Britain is an exporting nation, a factory state condemned to import food and bound to starve unless she can find markets for her manufactures and thus funds for the purchase of her food.

The war terribly reduced the purchasing power of the world and of the Central European states, which with Russia were very important British customers. In addition, the reparations settlement, by forcing Germany to give France and Italy millions of tons of coal annually, deprived the British of the French coal market in its entirety, and the Italian to a considerable extent. Thus we have seen terrible business depression in Britain, unemployment figures mounting into three millions. This depression culminated in a coal strike of unprecedented dimensions, during which the world witnessed the extraordinary spectacle of British ships compelled to go to French ports to coal and there loading German coal, which had been supplied to France on account of the reparations bill by German coal-miners.

Accordingly it has become a matter of life and death for Britain to restore the Central European markets for her manufactures, the markets which she filled before the war. It has become a matter of vital necessity for her to have Germany put on her feet economically, not only on account of German trade, but because most of central Europe depends upon Germany economically. If these markets cannot be restored, and that promptly, millions of Englishmen must emigrate or starve.

Now the French situation is totally different. France is not in the main a commercial country. She is self-sufficient as to food. Her manufacturers are largely non-competitive in the world market; that is, they do not meet competition from similar products of other nations. By the war France became the greatest iron country in Europe. The deliveries of German coal insure her domestic needs against the day when her own mines are reopened. Her occupation of the Sarre district gives her still further coal resources. At the moment when British unemployment numbers passed 3,000,000, the number of French citizens out of work barely passed the 80,000 mark.

What France needs is not the restoration of world markets, not the restoration of Germany to trading ability, but protection against a Germany which, in regaining industrial and economic strength, will, at the same time, regain the capacity to attack France again. All French policy centers about this one point.—Frank H. Simons in Review of Reviews for September.

WANTS TO STRAIGHTEN OUT CHINA'S SORROWS.

Mr. Herbert Hoover, now in the president's cabinet and prominently mentioned for the presidency before the primaries of last year, is not the only engineer of international reputation with political ambitions. Mr. John R. Freeman, a consulting engineer of Providence, R. I., is quoted in "Asia," a magazine published in the interests of the continent bearing its name, as desiring to be emperor of China for "just five years" in order that he may put into operation plans for controlling the famine tendencies of part of that unhappy country. Perhaps we should recognize in this ambition more of the humanitarian propensity than of a desire for political control. Mr. Freeman denominates the Yellow river as "China's Sorrow," and he would be emperor for five years in order that he may use his engineering knowledge for restraining the floods and controlling the potentialities of this mighty stream. In his judgement the control of this stream would convert "China's Sorrow," into another "Valley of the Nile." It would reclaim a strip of waste land five miles wide and 250 miles long, sufficient to accommodate more than 100,000 Chinese farms. Mr. Freeman is not without knowledge of Chinese conditions both as to this river and as to the possibilities of securing labor and financing such a stupendous proposal.

INSPIRATION.

There's a certain woman editor—rather famous as editors go—who invariably hangs the picture of a bit of open road leading to anywhere, or perhaps nowhere, over the desk at which she does her work.

Inspiration—it's the rhythm that the poetry of a world is written to! It's the background of history, the reason for the greatest books that are written, the spur that can make a life worth while. It's the oil that helps the wheels of commerce and industry and discovery and creation to turn smoothly. It's the silver lining to the darkest of clouds.

We all heed our bit of inspiration—every one of us. It's the thing that keeps us going on—and that enables us to give of our strength and help and assurance to the ones who really require it. We all need our bit of inspiration, and yet some of us who are doing commonplace work, who are living our lives day by day, feel that we're missing it. And when we feel that way it's best to invent an avenue of escape—to plan brave, gallant adventures in the innermost depths of the soul.

Don't allow yourselves to become dull from sitting at a desk, don't let your minds and imaginations grow dingy with the dust of an office or the smoke of a kitchen fire. Have your picture—or something else that will fully take the place of a picture—to go to for inspiration!

AND BEATING HIM OVER THE HEAD WON'T PUT ANY MORE IN HIS POCKETS.

George Fetz, Miss Anna Schmidt, Dr. Woolsey and Mr. Minor Monroe.

Xenia is beginning to send her annual delegation of students to the various colleges throughout the country. Mr. Ernest Schmidt left today for another year's work at Gambier. The University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, will have two students from Xenia, Mr. Fred Kelly and Mr. Harry Smith.

Messrs. John Bocklett and James Scott who recently returned from a trip to Cleveland and Buffalo are busy telling all their experiences. For instance in a restaurant in Cleveland, the bill was $2.60 for a light luncheon.

THE CRIPPLE.

Old Jimpson Jones has spavined limbs, he cannot use them any more; the gay world round him scoots and skims, as he sits by his cottage door, and casts his tired and ancient glims on autos passing, score by score. The autos glitter like a star, they're painted up in gorgeous tones; the back seats often empty are, and well might rest some weary bones; the joycars journey near and far, but no one stops for Jimpson Jones. The drivers look to left and right for damsels who might like a ride; they'd like to show some maidens bright how smooth and fast their boats can glide; and cripples languish through the night, forsaken, sad, and heavy-eyed. Old Jimpson Jones has bungled-up feet that will not stand the walking test; and shining cars go down the street and show all kinds of pep and zest; he often sees an empty seat, on which a poor old man might rest. And he is sick to go afield to country roads where green things grow, to see the orchard and the field, the farm-yards where the roosters crow; oh, such a joyride well might yield more pleasure than he'll ever know. The autos roar and chug and crash, and throw up clouds of dust and stones, and some of them were bought for cash, and some involve extensive loans, and some are good, and some are trash—but not one stops for Jimpson Jones.

A seventeen-page petition, containing ten causes for action, has been filed by John T. Harbine with Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam naming as defendants, Clarence Riley, Mary E. Riley and J. E. Herring.

The petition states that the defendants Clarence Riley and Mary E. Riley, executed a promissory note to the plaintiff March 5, 1920 for $250, bearing three per cent interest per month, and on which a credit of $48 was applied June 7, 1920. The note was secured by a chattel mortgage on a Sterling automobile truck, covering the tires and extra parts.

The petition claims $100 due on a second note executed June 12, 1920 bearing three per cent, on which $3 interest was paid July 13, 1920 and August 13, 1920, secured by a second chattel mortgage on the Sterling truck and a cattle rack. Another note for $100 was executed October 4, 1920, bearing three per cent per month, with no credits, and secured by a chattel mortgage on an upright piano and piano bench.

For another cause of action, a note was executed for $200 December 7, 1920, bearing three per cent per month, on which a credit of $25 was applied May 13, 1921, and secured by a chattel mortgage on four horses. The last note was for $300, executed December 20, 1920, bearing three per cent and no credits, and secured by a chattel mortgage on a seven passenger Mitchell automobile.

The petition states that J. E. Herring claims a lien against the Mitchell car and asks that he be required to set up his claims and that when the automobile is sold, that it be sold free of all claims. The petition asks for a judgment on each separate action.

Oglesbee made an assignment to the plaintiff August 10, and that the real estate assigned consisted of 50 acres, 49 acres and three acres, in separate tracts in Caesarscreek and three other tracts totalling 103.35 acres. The petition states that it is necessary to sell this property to pay the general creditors and there are not sufficient assets to pay the claims against the real estate. The Bowersville Bank and Albert Oglesbee claim liens against the property and the petition asks that the premises be sold free of all claims.

CASE IS DISMISSED.

GATHER DATA FOR COMING MEETING

Washington, Sept. 7.—Data for use in connection with the unemployment conference, called by Secretary Hoover at the request of President Harding was being gathered from the bureau of statistics of the department of labor, which was requested especially to supply cost of living figures.

While representatives to the conference will be limited probably 30 or less, it was learned that the president will be furnished with lists of persons considerably in excess of that number who will measure up to his request for representatives of the "key industries" from different sections of the country.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

THE SIMPLE LIFE

There is a very wholesome attitude of mind growing up in the world. I believe that all countries are beginning to feel it.

With the closing of the World War Tragedy, hate seemed to have been much spent.

The mad and ruthless fight for money and power is greatly softened. I was reading an article by Sir Philip Gibbs the other day that greatly impressed me. I want to quote a few lines.

"It is amusing to see how even our millionaires and profiteers sicken of the luxury they have created and for some months in the year at least put it away from them and try to get near Nature again in camps an bungalows in shooting, in fishing and in boating."

"All their financial jugglings and all their anxious watching of markets and prices all their headaches and sleepless nights in pursuit of power and wealth have led them only to the realization that the good life is in the woods and fields close to earth and under the open sky free from luxuries."

The simple life, after all, is the wholesome life—the happy life.

We can take nothing with us when we ticket our souls out of this mortal body of ours. But we can leave great possessions for those who walk in the ways we walk.

An old soldier nearly 60 years of age came up to me on the street the other day. He pulled from his pocket several old photographs. One was of his leader, General Meade, and another was of Abraham Lincoln at the age of 43. He had a most touching affection for them and I asked him to sit down and talk with me about them. He himself was the last of his family and was living at the Soldiers' home in his town. But he told me in his simple way of many of the joys of life and I was enriched by his visit.

How wonderful is the glitter of pure gold—after all the dross has been separated!

And that is what I see as the picture of life with all its madneses and insincerities cleaned away. It is with the simple things that we are most enriched.

Stevenson gets at it in one of his simple lines: "To earn a little—and spend less!"

Sometimes I look at the best life as the love life—where we see the good alone in people and love them for their best aspirations.

What is one of the most important things a mother-to-be should do?

The universal answer from thousands of experienced mothers is this: The mother-to-be should massage the muscles and nerves involved in the function of child-bearing, daily, with an application of Mother's Friend. Because—

Three generations of mothers record the virtue of Mother's Friend for not only allaying distress in advance, but for assisting nature in assuring a speedy recovery for the mother.

So thoroughly has Mother's Friend proven its wonderful efficiency in thousands of cases, that any expectant mother who does not employ its use as directed deprives herself of a powerful agent for her relief and well-being, during the period of pending maternity, and for her prospects for an easier delivery when the eventful hour arrives.

The women who appreciate Mother's Friend the most, and who are loudest in their praise of it, are those who unfortunately did not use it with their first baby and who, thru its use with the second one, were able to fully realize the almost unbelievable relief it gave.

Mrs. Olive Vanden, 10 Grape St., Gallipolis, Ohio, says:

"Before using Mother's Friend I suffered from Wednesday 'till Sunday. With my next child I used Mother's Friend and was sick only about three hours."

Many doctors and nurses recommend Mother's Friend. For external use—it is perfectly harmless. Begin its use at once. Sold by all druggists.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

MORGAN WILL NOT GIVE UP SCHOOL FOR WORK IN WEST

Arthur E. Morgan, former head of the Miami Conservancy district, and now president of Antioch College, will not necessarily absent himself from Antioch to head conservancy activities at Pueblo, Colorado, it is announced.

The announcement that Mr. Morgan had been named to take charge of the Colorado flood prevention project was made at the first chapel meeting at Antioch College Tuesday when the school began its fall term and its first day of school under the new regime.

Morgan's ability in handling the conservancy work at Dayton earned for him the offer to handle the Pueblo project, which is being promoted to prevent a recurrence of the flood that devastated the city a few months ago. Mr. Morgan returned from Pueblo recently where he consulted with Pueblo officials on preliminary plans for the work. He will go to Pueblo for a second conference, September 20.

BACKACHE OF WOMEN

The back is often called the main-spring of a woman's life. What can she do, where can she go, so long as that deadly backache saps every particle of her strength and ambition? She cannot walk, she cannot stand, her housework is a burden, or the long hours behind the counter, in the office or factory are crushing. She is miserable. The cause is many times some derangement of her system, and backache is a common symptom. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable remedy for backache, as for more than forty years it has been relieving women of America from the ailments which often cause it.

Dinner Stories

"Biddy," remarked the newly wed Irishman, "go down and feed the pigs."
"Faith, and I will not," replied the bride.
"Don't be after contradicting me, Biddy," retorted the husband.
"Haven't I just endowed you with all my worldly goods, and if you cannot feed your own property, then it's ashamed of you I am."

This was a new point of view, so off Biddy went.
Presently she returned.
"Have you fed the pigs, Biddy?" demanded her husband, sternly.
"Faith, and I have not," she answered.
"I have done a great deal better. As they were my property I have sold them and shall not be bothered with them again."

The family had been having an epidemic of colds and sore throats. Each received the physician's favorite prescriptions for powder and gargle. Finally the maid, a recent importation from Poland, fell ill. The lady of the house tried to give her the powder and gargle, but she insisted on having the physician. And when the latter came he prescribed as usual.
"Now, you see," said the mistress, "he's giving you exactly the same things I took."
"I won't take dem," responded the maid. "Doctor, you are a sensible man. I ask you, is it right a single girl should take de same medicine as a married woman vid children?"

Four-year-old Dorothy listened attentively while her mother telephoned a grocery order. The last item in the list was evidently a new one to her. Over this she pondered for a long time and finally inquired, thoughtfully:

"Mamma, did you send for some cornstarch?"
"Yes, dearie."
"What for? Is you goin' to launder your corns?"—Judge.

The kind-hearted minister was expostulating with the landlord who had raised the poor parishioners' rent about three hundred and thirteen per cent.

"If I want to hear you preach," said the landlord angrily, "I'll come to church, where you should do your preaching, and listen to you there!"

"If you were where you should be," was the dignified reply, "you would have that opportunity next Sunday. I am preach at the state's prison!"—Life.

At last some humor has been discovered to exist in Sinn Fein. It came from the mouth of an old Irishman who was letting himself go to an unfortunate tourist, who had lost one of those trains which do not go as often as they used to in the land of fair dreams and unfair realities. To the tourist the old fellow spoke thus:
"Och, it's all very well for yez to say that Ould Ireland isn't the same as she always was. Begorra! We shtill have our fun left to us, wiv all th' dishtress that's pervadin' us—body an' soul. An' Oi ch tell yez this—that there'd be shtill a whole heap of humor in this Sinn Fein bizness, if it wasn't for all the killin' that's goin' along wiv it."

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

THE OLD HOME TOWN

BY STANLEY

The principal of a certain school for girls had occasion to speak sharply to one of the pupils.
"Marion," he said sharply, "you've neglected your work shamefully, and you must remain with me an hour after school."

Marion shrugged her thin, little shoulders. "Well," she said, "if your wife doesn't mind it, I'm sure I don't."

"I suppose in the collecting business nearly every man you go to see asks you to call again?"
"Ask me?" replied the collector. "Some of them dare me!"

The Judge—So you claim you robbed that delicatessen store because you were starving? Why didn't you take something to eat instead of stealing the cash out of the register?

The Accused—'Cause I'm a proud man, judge, an' I make it a rule to pay for everything I eat.

"What became of that young man who was paying so much attention to you?"
"I don't know. I let him walk to the grocery store one afternoon with me, and after he saw how much we had to pay for things to eat he just quit coming to see me."

BANDIT'S VICTIM SHOT

New York, September 7.—Luigi Graiffo, 22 years old, was shot and killed instantly yesterday by Patrolman Albert Prette. The patrolman fired only one shot, which took effect in the man's breast. Beside his body, according to police, was found a pistol with one empty cartridge.

According to Patrolman Prette, he saw Graiffo with the pistol in his hand, and mistaking him for a hold-up man, ordered him to "stick up" his hands. Graiffo refused and instead pointed the gun at him, the patrolman alleges. Then the officer said, he fired.

John Scapattucci, a brother-in-law of the dead man, said that as the patrolman approached five men were robbing Graiffo, who fired at the robbers as they fled. Scapattucci declared the patrolman mistook Graiffo for one of the hold-up men.

Patrolman Prette helped carry the body into a store. A crowd collected and reserves were called to restore order.

"NO HUNTING" SIGNS WILL BE DISTRIBUTED BY LOCAL BODY

One thousand "no hunting or trespassing" signs will be given out by the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association to farmer members of the organization who desire them.

It was agreed to have the signs printed at the meeting of the Association held Tuesday night, at the L. F. Clevenger store and the signs will be distributed on request as soon as they are prepared.

Karl Keller, Game Protector for this county, reported at the Tuesday night meeting that he had visited the fish hatcheries at Newton and at London in regard to the distribution of fish and that the men in charge of the hatcheries will inform him when they are ready.

The plans for the big venison banquet to be held at the early meeting and banquet this fall will be discussed at the next meeting of the Association. L. F. Clevenger, president of the Association, has promised venison for the annual banquet and it is expected that the attendance will reach 1,000.

Members at the meeting, Tuesday night, were served peach ice cream by Mr. Clevenger and cake baked by Charles Harnisch, of Spring Valley and a vote of thanks was given these men. Seven new members were also reported at the meeting.

MORE EXECUTIONS IN MEXICO HAVE OCCURRED, REPORT

Mexico City, Mex. — Chapters from the story of the mediaeval times are being enacted in some of the States, if the stories coming here are true.

It is asserted that eighteen persons were executed without trial in Puebla. The chief of police of that city, Arturo Camarillo, is under investigation. It is asserted that this official has ruled with a high hand, assuming power of life and death over a certain element.

All of the men executed, it is said, were criminals, or persons whom the police thought to be criminals. But their summary fate has caused the circulation of other stories of Czar-like methods, which forced the present inquiry.

From Chihuahua comes a story that the Governor, General Ignacio C. Enriquez, has used something similar to the letter de cachet to take into custody Alfonso Gomez Luna, a lawyer of some distinction. Jose Gomez Luna, brother of the lawyer, asserts that it was a secret arrest, due to the lawyer's defense of Francisco Madrid, editor of La Tribuna, an obscure publication in Chihuahua which found fault with the Governor. As the Gomez Luna family has influential connections here a great stir has been made.

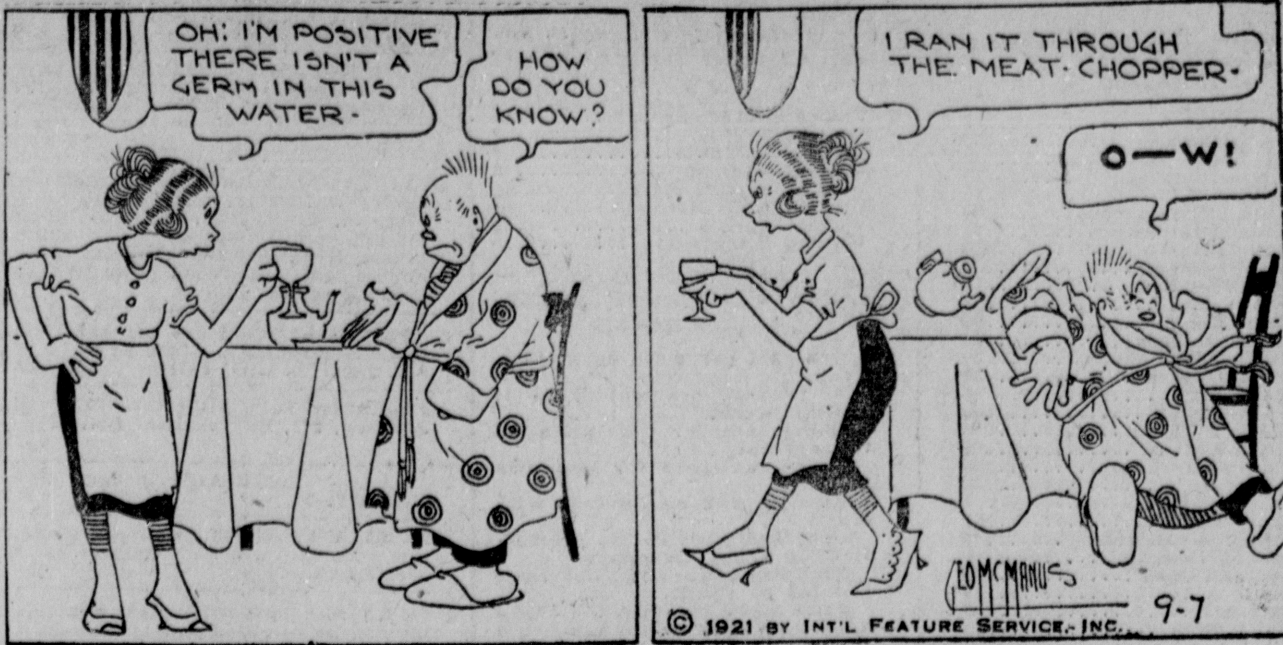

The charges that Governor Enriquez has acted despotically surprise the capital. He is looked upon as the most enlightened and progressive governor in Mexico. He is a graduate in engineering of the University of Illinois and has been a leader in reform movements in cluding prohibition. The improvements he has made in Chihuahua, the extension of the school system and the general good order he has maintained have caused many to look upon him as a model for other Governors.

Not long ago it was proposed that Governor Enriquez lecture in the United States in the belief that he would be a convincing example of the soundness and strength of the new men now ruling Mexico.

INDIANS REVOLT AGAINST UPLIFT

Columbus. — "There seems to be a silent revolution among Indians against the British by native fanatics, led by educated natives who are against the uplift of the lower classes," said W. E. Bancroft, of this city. Mr. Bancroft served in India fifteen years as a missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He believes the extensive movement against British rule in India is a cleverly disguised conspiracy against western Christian civilization.

For the last thirty years the leaders of the extremists have been striving hard to check the onward progress of western ideals and civilization in India," Mr. Bancroft continued.

"It may be that these leaders hope to secure control of the natives to exploit the illiterate masses. Only 10 per cent of the male population and 1 per cent of the female are literate," he declared.

MORE PICKLE RECIPES

Tobasco Sauce: 4 dozen red tobacco or Chile peppers, about 1-2 cup of spiced vinegar and 1 clove of garlic. Boil the finely chopped garlic and the peppers until tender, merely slicing them through several times, then rub all through a sieve. To this paste add enough spiced vinegar to give it a creamy consistency. Then pour into hot, sterilized bottles and seal airtight by first corking, then dipping the neck of the bottle into hot, melted paraffine wax. An onion may be substituted for the garlic if preferred. To spice the vinegar simply add to 1-2 gallon of 1-2 cup of grated horseradish, 1 1-2 tablespoons of celery seed, 1 tablespoon salt and 1 tablespoon cinnamon (cloves, nutmeg and grated onion may also be added if liked). Let this spiced vinegar boil over several minutes, and it is then ready to use as above directed.

Pickled Onions: Wash small white onions and pour hot water over them, allowing them to stand for a minute or two; then drain, and remove skins. Now soak them over night in a brine made by combining 2 quarts of boiling water and 1-2 cups of salt (put the onions into it while it is hot). In the morning drain the onions, boil them in clear hot water for five minutes until tender (but do not boil till too tender), and place them in fairly dry jars (which, however, are hot from having been recently sterilized) and pour over them boiling-hot vinegar. If spiced vinegar is desired, boil the following spices a few minutes with the vinegar; to each gallon of vinegar allow 1-2 ounce each of allspice, pepper-corns, mace, and mustard seeds tied securely in a little bag. But if the whiteness that is so appetizing in pickled onions is to be retained, the spices must be omitted. Sliced red peppers may, however, be distributed between the onions in the jars, before pouring the hot vinegar over them.

Sweet Pickled Watermelon Rind: 10 pounds watermelon rind, 1 quart of vinegar, 4 cups granulated sugar, 1-2 ounce whole cloves, 1-2 ounce stick cinnamon. Cut the rind in small pieces, peel, and take care to remove all the red part. Cover these pieces with cold water and let stand 5 hours, then boil it till clear in the same water, adding little more if necessary as this boils away. Then lift out the pieces, drain them well, and place them in a china bowl with a cover. Boil the vinegar for 10 minutes with the sugar and spices, then pour it also in the bowl, over the watermelon pieces. For 3 days repeat this process of boiling up the vinegar and again pouring it over the watermelon, but on the third day have the watermelon pieces in hot, sterilized glass jars instead of in the bowl, and seal airtight at once.

Pepper Relish: Put through your meat grinder 12 large onions, 14 large red peppers and 14 large green peppers. Cover with boiling water slightly salted (taste, to determine) and let stand for 10 minutes, then drain. Repeat this process 3 times (letting the chopped vegetables stand fully 10 minutes each time) and the last time press them in a cloth after draining (to get as dry as possible). Turn this chopped mixture into the preserving kettle, add 1 quart of vinegar and 3 cups of granulated sugar, and let simmer for 1 hour, then seal at once in hot, sterilized jars.

MARGARET PLANS HER OWN WARDROBE

CHAPTER 31

Margaret had determined that she would have a stylish and becoming wardrobe for the summer—as far as she could afford it. But the habit of years was not so easily discarded. When she shopped and saw the gay sport suits that were all the rage for summer wear, the bright colors for afternoon and evening gowns, she also saw Joan—the look on her face when she told her she had "lost her Mumsie." Unconsciously it influenced Margaret in her purchases. She lingered longingly over rose and green sweaters; then chose sober drab and brown. She looked at gorgeously colored evening gowns only to decide upon simple black net. She tried on handsome stylish afternoon gowns that made her look so girlish that she blushed at the feeling of happiness it gave her, yet she turned lingeringly away and bought simple white or dark blue crepe de chine gowns that made her appear, if not quite her age—not as young as her daughter.

"Joan will be pleased," she said regretfully after her selections were made. Margaret, however, exercised her independence in one instance. She bought the dark blue and white bathing suit and the pretty becoming cap. Dark blue stockings, and the white shoes with the dark blue trimmings completed the outfit.

Margaret tried the suit on surreptitiously in the privacy of her room, the door locked against sudden intrusion by Joan, who was out at the time. After she was fully dressed, cap and all, Margaret followed Joan's example and stood before the cheval glass critically examining her still girlish figure.

"Yes, it is just the right length," slender legs in their glossy silk stockings and smart shoes were revealed. "Not too low either, and those short sleeves are perfect. I shall want to wear the cap all the time, it is so becoming," she added then laughed at herself. The idea of a woman 40 years old talking to herself like a child! Would she ever overcome this desire to be and look young now that it had taken possession of her?

Joan's voice started her. She drew off the cap quickly, then unlocked the door. When her daughter reached the room, Margaret was innocently arranging the white tie that held her collar in place.

"I thought I would try it on and see that it was all right," she explained, trying to keep the note of apology she so often used when speaking to Joan, out of her voice. "How do you like it?"

"Pretty well," dubiously answered Joan, the disapproving frown evident. "I think it's too young. I told you it would be," severely. "But of course you don't think so—" This last a bit impudently.

"No, or I would not have purchased it," Margaret answered. "I think it's a very good looking and modest costume. I'll put on the cap, then we can see just how it looks with the suit." A red flush crept over her cheeks at her innocent duplicity.

It took Margaret some moments to adjust the cap to her satisfaction; evidently. Then she turned to see a look of distinct disapprobation on Joan's face.

"This is too silly for anything!" she declared. Margaret pretended not to understand.

"So would a black one." "But this is partly black." "Partly! But those white wings standing out on the top of your slender legs in their glossy silk stockings and smart shoes were re-

"Oh Joan, dear! Don't call me a person!" Margaret wanted to laugh; she longed to cry. Would this foolish young daughter of hers ever recognize the youth in her? Had she submerged it, herself until too late?

"A woman then, Excuse me!" Joan of late had become quite particular in certain ways, such as using the right word to express herself and so on. She was quite the best English scholar in her class, and one day Macdonald Frost had said:

"You use the most awful English out of school of any of us if you do stand higher in class work." It had had instantaneous effect. Tomorrow—Off to the Seashore.

GERMANY'S WAR OF SECESSION IS NEAR

Munich, Sept. 6.—The struggle between north and south Germany, which threatens to precipitate a war of secession such as the United States passed through sixty years ago, grew more bitter today. Savage attacks were made in the Bavarian press against the Berlin government.

Herr Gradnauer, federal minister of interior, sent two urgent telegrams from Berlin demanding that Bavaria enforce federal decrees, particularly those suspending royalist and militarist newspapers and prohibiting the suppression of republican political meetings. The Bavarian cabinet met but took no action.

I WAS A NERVOUS BANKRUPT WEAK, WORN AND "ALL IN"

I was too weak to work; too nervous to think and my business was going to ruin.

Until I was a complete physical and mental wreck with financial ruin staring me in the face, I never realized that the system manufactured only so much nerve force every twenty-four hours, and that if through worry, overwork, excitement, grief, or constant nervous strain, or other excesses, you used up your nerve force faster than it was made, that in time you were bound to become a nervous bankrupt. Just like a man who continually spends more money than he makes, he is bound, in time, to become a financial bankrupt. I knew I was fast losing my old time strength and endurance and that I was getting extremely nervous, but I did not attach much importance to it until one day I found that I was suffering terrible tortures from an awful de-vitalizing weakness that put my nerves all on edge. The slightest thing completely upset me. I had a dull heavy aching pain in the lower back part of my head, and sometimes a very disagreeable sense of fullness in the front and top of my head. I could not sleep well at night. A continuous round of thoughts would chase one another through my brain. I would often find myself in a state of profuse perspiration, which was very weakening. Sometimes I suffered from heart palpitation and indigestion. I would often wake up in the middle of the night with a horrible nightmare, and think I was chained to my bed. Finally my pains, aches, and extreme nervousness and weakness became so alarming I was afraid I was going to die, and I often thought of committing suicide.

The above is a hypothetical case, which a physician says is typical of thousands. It is alarming to think how very few people really have strong nerves nowadays, and how many hundreds of thousands suffer from exhaustion of the nerve-vital fluid. Their nerve cells are very much like the cells of a storage battery in an electric car, in which the electricity has run so low that the car can hardly move. In such cases, unless they do something quickly to increase the supply of nerve-vital fluid so as to furnish increased power to the nerves, they are likely to go all to pieces at any moment and suffer indescribable tortures. Most remarkable results are usually obtained by these unfortunate sufferers from the free administration of Nuxated Iron—two tablets three times a day after meals. This valuable product contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most nearly resembles that in the nerve and brain cells of man.

It also contains organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. This form of iron will not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It is an entirely different thing from metallic iron which people usually take. Nuxated Iron may therefore be termed both a blood and a nerve food, as it feeds strength-giving iron to your blood and the principal chemical ingredient of active, living nerve force to your brain and nerve cells.

Over four million people are using Nuxated Iron annually, and from the remarkably beneficial results which it has produced, the manufacturers feel so certain of its efficacy that they guarantee satisfactory results to every purchaser who will refund your money. Beware of substitutes, look for the word "Nuxated" on every package.

After using Nuxated Iron we shall be pleased to have you write us what it does for you for publication. Your name will be withheld.

Nuxated Iron for the blood and nerves is sold by all druggists.
